Growing in Faith, Hope and Love

For the month of June, our theme has been Bible study. One of my favorite things about studying the Bible is that, no matter how many times you read it, you learn something new. Even those of us that may be more familiar with scripture can still learn something every time we read it.

I was recently studying for our Sunday morning teen class on the book of Hebrews when I noticed something that made me stop and think. The main theme of Hebrews is that Christ's law is better than the Mosaic law. The Hebrew writer is trying to explain to his audience that Jesus was and is the ultimate sacrifice and that there is no longer a need for the old law.

I have read Hebrews many times before but never really understood the connection between Christ and the High Priests of the Old Testament. The symmetry is simply amazing! Under the old law, once a year on the day of Atonement, the high priest would offer a sacrifice for his sins and then another for the sins of the people. Only the high priest could enter the Holy of Holies and only on this day. The sacrifice was to be perfect with no blemishes. God gave us not only the perfect sacrifice but the perfect person to offer that sacrifice. You see, Jesus was the spotless lamb that took away our sins, but there had to be a high priest to offer that sacrifice. Jesus was that high priest! He willingly gave us his life. No one took it from him. As our high priest, He approached the "Holy of Holies" for us and offered the ultimate sin offering, Himself.

Isn't it great that we have such a wonderful savior that He was willing to offer Himself for our sins! Let's never forget that Christ was willing to give Himself for us. Have a great week and remember you are loved!

READING THE BIBLE IN A YEAR:

The Leviticus Book = Psalms Concerning Worship

The third book of Psalms is predominately comprised of psalms from the sons of Asaph (Psalms 73-83). This family was devoted to leading the people in worship to God in His temple (I Chronicles 25:1). However, of the 17 Psalms in this section there is also a psalm of David (Psalm 86), one from Heman the Ezraite (Psalm 88), one from Ethan the Ezraite (Psalm 89), and three from the Sons of Korah (Psalm 84-85, 87).

Psalms: Book Three relates to the book of Leviticus. The general theme concerns the Sanctuary. The book begins with the Sanctuary as related to man (Psalms 73-83, related to Leviticus 1-7) and concludes with the Sanctuary as related to God (Psalms 84-89, related to Leviticus 8-27). Many of these psalms were actually written by the Levitical priests. They emphasize God's faithfulness—a faithfulness that spans generations and are not just used in conjunction with the psalmist (like the first two books) but with the entire nation. In Book Three, we see the Lord around us, remaining faithful to His people through the generations. The Asaph psalms prefer the name Elohim or EL, in reference to God, but the rest of the book uses Yahweh.

These were written to be sung by the temple choirs and/or congregational hymns. They remind us that God alone is holy and that we should remember our place before Him when we worship. When we come into God's presence we should have reverential fear, awe, and respect for Him.

The first psalm in this book announces, "Truly God is good to Israel" (Psalm 73:1). God has been just in all of His dealings with the nation of Israel despite the sufferings that the people often went through and the sins they committed. The final psalm in this book speaks of the fact that God has kept His covenant with David, therefore He should be worshipped and praised (Psalm 89). Don't miss the double "Amen" at the end! Again.

My favorite psalm in this section is Psalm 85 that delivers a message of revival and restoration to Israel. It says, "Mercy and truth have met together; Righteousness and peace have kissed. Truth shall spring out of the earth, and righteousness shall look down from heaven. Yes, the Lord will give what is good; And our land will yield its increase. Righteousness will go before Him, and shall make His footsteps our pathway." There is always hope when we serve a merciful God. He is righteous! And His will is to keep us on the path of righteousness. Have a great week!

You Are Loved. Ray
